EXPLORING THE SALISH SEA – SIDNEY SPIT

As many of you know, we live in a fantastic province that is known, internationally, as having one of the most intriguing marine oases in the world. People sail from offshore places, fly in from distant lands, and ferry across the Salish Sea to experience cruising the Gulf Islands. Just take a browse through the well-known Tanner's Bookstore in Sidney and you will find inside a small alcove dedicated to boating with charts, books, maps and more to spark your adventurous soul. Indeed, boating shrinks our globe, for you never know when your plotted course may connect you with a cruising colleague or provide you with the experience of learning more about our marine abundance that is at our finger tips!

For those of you who have explored Sidney Island with its long snake-like curvature of sand that beckons you to wade during low tide, or bask on the creamy white sandy beach where dune grasses wave ever so lightly in an offshore breeze, you know what island riches await you. On several occasions during the warm sunny months we have been lured by the sun blazing through blue skies to bare our arms, rush down to our boat, and escape to this sandy haven. Within 30 minutes of motoring, or 50 minutes of tacking to a 12 knot easterly, the Sidney North Saanich Yacht Club becomes a mere speck in the background as white mooring buoys appear – our carefree nesting ground. Whether rowing the dinghy to the Parks Canada dock, or going ashore to secure line to heavy beached logs, it is always an adventure to walk the trails of stories past, now inhabited by timid Black-Tailed and Fallow Deer that display velvet antlers while nibbling in camping fields. There have been occasions when a bird of prey stares down from a dock pile at young children wading about the low tide sand pool and, in the wood growth, a red squirrel chatters. The rising and falling of the tide never ceases to attract your attention to those beach wanderers who wade back to their dinghy left several hours earlier. The evening is cloaked in peach and yellow hues – a reminder that another day for reading and binocular gazing awaits. No matter how many times you return to this treasured place, there is always something new to photo print into your memory: Remember the time when we were on a broad reach parallel to shore and we heard a “gulp” and looking around we caught a glimpse of a pair of Harbour Porpoises taking a breath till the roar of a whale watching skiff powered with enormous speed ushered their black dorsal fins to dive deep! Then there was that 5:55 am return to port when we noticed a determined Pacific Harbour Seal who wrestled with a red mass in its mouth and – while keeping a respectful distance – we watched in awe as it disappeared and resurfaced shortly thereafter with a long reddish arm with creamy white round cups. Yes, the Giant Pacific Octopus was part of the Circle of Life in this marine environment for both seal and several gulls close at hand to help in “clean up”. Amazing!

GREAT CANADIAN SHORELINE CLEANUP

The second annual Great Canadian Shoreline Cleanup took place at the end of September this year. Again, the objective was for various squadrons to get out and pick up litter from the beaches in our areas.

Throughout the whole year we can document:

- How much garbage we have collected. We can measure volume in the number of bags we can fill up and we can measure weight.
- What type of garbage are we finding?
- How many beaches or marine areas did we clean up collectively?
- What did we learn about the impacts of garbage on our water-ways and marine life?
- What can we do to reduce the amount of waste, or eliminate it entirely?

While cruising feel free to enhance your collection with garbage floating in the water. Catch it before it even reaches the shore!

Remember to dispose of garbage in appropriate facilities. Many items are of a toxic nature and we want to minimize damage to landfills as well. Contact the CRD at 250-360-3030 or e-mail them at hotline@crd.bc.ca for advice on disposing of problem items or visit www.crd.bc.ca/waste/hartland for more information. Pacific Mobile Depot takes styrofoam and other items at several locations in the Greater Victoria Region.

Photos and documentation will form the basis for a report that can be shared throughout the District. So let's do our part, have some fun, and have a friendly competition to see which squadron can remove the most litter from our beaches!

Let's be part of the solution and provide an example for boaters and others who use our beaches and marine areas.

Vancouver Island South District*

CLASSIFIEDS

GUIDELINES FOR CLASSIFIED ADS:

Saanich Peninsula Power & Sail Squadron will accept personal advertisements from members for publication in The Beacon and on the Squadron website in the following categories:

- 1) Boats for sale or wanted
- 2) Marine related items for sale or wanted
- 3) Assistance required (marine related only)

Please advise editor@sppss.org if you want to place an ad, and also when your article has sold or been taken off the market.

A LITTLE HUMOUR

Everything I Need to Know About Life, I Learned from Noah's Ark

One: Don't miss the boat.

Two: Remember that we are all in the same boat.

Three: Plan ahead! It wasn't raining when Noah built the Ark.

Four: Stay fit. When you're 600 years old, someone may ask you to do something really big.

Five: Don't listen to critics; just get on with the job that needs to be done.

Six: Build your future on high ground.

Seven: For safety's sake, travel in pairs.

Eight: Speed isn't always an advantage. The snails were onboard with the cheetahs.

Nine: When you're stressed, float a while.

Ten: Remember, the Ark was built by amateurs; the Titanic by professionals.

Eleven: No matter the storm, when you are with God, there's always a rainbow waiting.
